How Can We Practise Being At Peace With Creation?

"Humanity is called to recognize the need for changes of lifestyle, production and consumption, in order to combat this warming..."

My artwork reflects on our profit from over consuming the Earth's natural resources. The quote from Laudato Si connects to my idea since they both revolve around the concept of overconsumption. I wrote the title ' Planet First, Profit Second!' on my work because currently humanity is more focussed on unimportant things and not the fact the Earth is slowly dying. Companies such as TEMU, and SHIEN have a big impact since they sell things at extremely cheap prices. Because of this people are buying so much stuff for little prices. This can conclude to fast fashion, which turns beautiful landscapes to an ugly dump. This then links to my next quote "These problems are closely linked to a throwaway culture which affects the excluded just as it quickly reduces things to rubbish." Littering kills over 3 million animals a year and fast fashion kills over 3 billion animals a year. That's a big number, way bigger than the population of Australia. Can you imagine the whole population of Australia dying, 115 times that amount is how many animals die a year from the damages of fast fashion. Most of the deaths of animals are cows, sheep, geese and ducks. We need to stop over consumption since we are killing innocent animals and we are running out nonrenewable resources. THERE IS NO PLANET B!!

Our School's Theme: Hope, how does it care for creation?

The school's theme hope links to caring for creation because it gives some sense of belief and encouragement. So if we have hope, we are working look through the hard challenges we have to face and think positive. It helps us think of a better future for next generations and motivates us to fix the mistakes we have made. Hope is the fuel for determination and one if the important key elements to care for our common home.
