

“The climate is a common good, belonging to all and meant for all.”

The art piece I made was inspired by how our Earth is treated. I showed my work through 4 parts on paper 2, with the good parts of nature and how they are still being treated right, and the other 2 parts were about how our world has been taken over by buildings, and all the things that can pollute our world. The question I answered was what creation looks to me and how I would interpret it, I did it like this because it shows how our world is being polluted and that we aren't doing much to support it some parts on the picture are still green because it means that some people still care for God's creations.

This connects to our school value hope because Pope Francis's quote could inspire others giving them hope to look after what Gods entrusted us to protect, this might be because they might see the world around them see it might not be the same as it use to be and this might make people want to help and get the earth back to water it was like before.
