My question

Why is it important for young people to reconnect with creation?

Laudato Si Quote:

“Humanity is called to recognize the need for changes of lifestyle, production and consumption in order to combat this warning”

Reflection

Reflection- Why is it important for young people to reconnect with creation? Young people should re connect to creation because it's part of our future and many other generations and by reconnecting with it they can see the world's natural beauty and can inspire them to care for creation so we can maintain creation. My artwork shows how the world can look if we reconnect with creation and restore its natural beauty which is the photo side. The photo is an image of the peaceful mountains with clean grassland and animals. The part that's hand drawn is showing what our earth has turned into and how it will continue to look if we don't care for our earth. I believe that my artwork shows the difference between a clean and subdued earth compared to our current earth today. As Chief Seattle said "We do not inherit the Earth from our ancestors; we borrow it from our children." This quote tells us how we don't inherit the earth from ancestors but everytime we damage the earth we take the earth and beauty of creation away from our children. This is why it is important to reconnect with creation , so other generations get to see the glory and beauty of our earth.

Explanation

Explanation- Caring for creation is demonstrated through 2025 for St Columba's College theme of hope. It is very clear that our earth isn't in the best state and is slowly deteriorating but we have seen hope demonstrated through out St Columba's this year. We can see St columba's is trying to help restore creation by setting rules about not littering and planting plants around the school. Looking after creation at school is showing a sign of hope for creation and our common home.
