Part B

Why is it important for young people to connect with nature?

reflection:

i) This teaching connects with my piece because it shows how everyone and anyone, like how the animal and girl are here, belong in the common home for all, the climate. I also believe that it is important for young people to connect with nature because it brings peace of mind to all and happiness, plus a connection to the place that's taken care of you all of your life.

i) Caring for creation demonstrates our 2025 Saint Columba's College theme of hope because we need hope for our futures and our future generation's futures, and we need to care for creation so that our planet survives long enough for that
