reflection

In this picture i have connected with peace and creation to make a drawing on how to be better with the environment and people. My catholic social teaching, stewardship of creation is all about having care, respect and responsibility for the land and humans. My Laudato Si quote is all about poverty and how some people don't have clean water to drink or shelter to live under the quote says "The exploitation of the planet has already exceeded acceptable limits and we still have not solved the problem of poverty." This is true most people are fighting for their lives and people with peace and love plan to stop it. Caring for creation demonstrates hope by helping out the homeless and offering things to people who need it more, Hope means to have positivity in the future and growth with others.
