part b: reflecting through faith

My drawing shows that God has given us his creation so we need to take care of it by protecting our land, we show Stewardship just by doing simple things like looking after the Earth and we have hope that future generations will take on our responsibility and look after God's creation like we do the two hands holding the Earth represents that we all have to look after the Earth not just one person.

Explanation of how caring for creation demonstrates our 2025 St Columbus College theme of Hope

Caring for creation shows the theme of hope by reflecting faith in gods promise of a renewed earth.

Many faiths hold a deep-seated hope that God will ultimately restore creation, making the work of human stewardship an expression of this future hope. We hope that everyone will care for our creation because if we don't care for earth it will soon deteriorate and won't be anyone's home or place they call home.
