

Reflection:

This teaching connects with my artwork because it links to the idea of changing our lifestyle and choices to help stop global warming. The quote highlights that this is a battle against ourselves, that it is up to us to end it as well. If we change small things it can have a big impact on the planet. My artwork shows these small actions, like planting new trees or recycling plastics, this connects to the idea that our choices really matter for protecting the Earth.