

ARTWORK REFLECTION

LAUDATO SI QUOTE: "The exploitation of the planet has already exceeded acceptable limits and we still have not solved the problem of poverty."

This teaching connects to my artwork because my artwork shows how the earth is unhealthy and will continue to be if we keep living like this. The drawing reflects to the question because it teaches and shows us how the earth could be if young people would connect with creation to take care of our world to make sure it doesn't turn out damaging to the animals and ourselves. Caring for creation demonstrates our college theme of hope because it shows that we believe for a better future and we can get this if we start taking care of the planet today. When people look after the environment by planting trees, reducing waste it shows that they have hope for our world and its creations.

Why is it important for young people to reconnect with creation?
